

You will not go from being very afraid of public speaking to presenting confidently in front of large audiences overnight. Here are ways to develop this confidence beginning with easier tasks and building up to the more difficult ones.

Your commitment will grow as you achieve the various different steps on the way. Feel free to adapt these examples and make them more relevant to you.

Baby steps to become a confident public speaker:

- 1. Initiate small talk with your manager.
- 2. Speak up in a small meeting at work (2 or 3 people).
- 3. Ask a stranger for the time or directions.
- 4. Initiate a 1-1 conversation with your manager asking for feedback on your performance.
- 5. Ask for change in a shop.
- 6. Initiate a 1-1 conversation that you've been putting off.
- 7. Speak up in a slightly larger meeting at work.
- 8. Go to a networking event with a friend.
- 9. Initiate a 1-1 conversation with your manager to explain an idea that you have about how processes could be improved at work.
- 10. Go to a networking event with a friend and initiate a conversation with one person you don't know.
- 11. Go to a public speaking meeting (without speaking).
- 12. Join a public speaking or drama/theatre group.
- 13. Enrol on a public speaking course.
- 14. Present at an event or at work.
