

31 days drop a jean size weight loss plan vital info

- A caveat before we begin. This is not a diet for life. It is a diet to help us shed weight over a short period and help us build discipline on our eating habits. This will stand to us for life.
- After the challenge I will be here to support reintegration to a more varied diet incorporating some of the foods which you would have eaten before and some new things.
- The most important element to the diet is sticking to 3 meals and 1 snack per day and nothing outside of this apart from drinking water. Black coffee, herbal tea and black teas are allowed with a drop of milk – I'm not a dictator 😊 (no latte, cappuccinos etc. as they are calorie dense).
- In theory you can do your high carb, low fat meal at breakfast, lunch or dinner however I have a preference for you using it in the evening for dinner. Here's why – Dr. Mike Israetel (highly respected in the field of nutrition) states that high carb in the evening works well at that time for "individuals who struggle with evening hunger during dieting, but really don't have as much of an appetite earlier in the morning. For them, eating more of their carbs when they are actually hungrier in the evenings can let them stick to their diet plan calories without driving them crazy with hunger or making them stuff food down in the mornings when they don't feel like eating."
- Avoid:
 - Bread and all wheat-based derivatives (Tortilla Wraps, Buns, Scones, Pittas, Biscuit etc).
 - Pasta, Noodles, Spaghetti, Biscuits, Buns, Pastries
 - Sweet corn, Soya Products, Oats, Barley, Rye (includes Ryvita)
 - Sweets, Chocolate + Crisps
 - Fruit Juice, Cordial and Fizzy drinks
 - Mayonnaise, Ketchup and other high calorie sauces
 - Cereal, Milk and Yoghurt
 - Vegetable Oil (Rapeseed, Sunflower, Sesame, Canola, SoyBean etc)
- No salt to be added to food, unless it's a little sea salt or Himalayan pink salt.
- Coconut oil, macadamia nut oil, ghee (clarified butter) or butter should be the only fats used for cooking!!
- Please refer to the other attachment on the 31-day challenge diet does and don'ts.