

Step 1

Use this wheel as a template, or simply draw your own on a piece of paper.

Step 2 - Complete the wheel

Take 20 minutes in a quiet and calm environment to go through the 8 categories and rate them between 1 (completely unsatisfied) and 10 (completely satisfied).

Think about the following:

- Is your career going in the direction which you would like it to?
- Are you earning enough to satisfy your current needs?
- Are your exercise and nutrition at a level you're satisfied with?
- Are your friends supportive of you? Do you see enough / too much of them?
- Is your family supportive of you? Do you show them support? Do you see enough / too much of them?
- Do you feel loved? Are you expressing love to others?
- Are you enjoying life and making it fun?
- Are you contributing to society?
- Are you trying new experiences and seeking to learn?
- Do you have a relationship with your spiritual being? Do you give gratitude? Do you give some time to reflection?
- Do you respect, love and appreciate yourself?

Step 3 - Ask why

Why did you score each category this way?

Step 4

What is the ideal score in the given categories you would like to aim towards?

Step 5 - Reflection

Where are the biggest gaps between current and desired levels?

Is there one area in particular you want to now focus on more?

Step 6 - Deal with imbalance

If you find yourself particularly strong on some areas and very askew on others, then ask yourself, 'Am I potentially overly valuing / overinvesting in some areas at the expense of my wellbeing?'.

Step 7 - Immediate actions

Write down three things you will action this week to put this new direction into action.

